

Potassium Permanganate Torch

When glycerine a rather viscous and transparent liquid is added to potassium permanganate crystals, a strong exothermic reaction takes places. The resulting flame gives off light and heat.