

Scaredy Squirrel

by Mélanie Watt

KIDS CAN PRESS

Scaredy Squirrel never leaves his nut tree.

He'd rather stay in his safe and familiar tree than risk venturing out into the unknown. The unknown can be a scary place for a squirrel.

A few things
Scaredy Squirrel
is afraid of:

green Martians

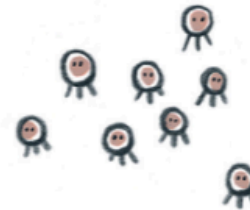

killer bees

tarantulas

poison ivy

germs

sharks

So he's perfectly happy to stay right where he is.

Advantages of never leaving the nut tree:

- great view

- plenty of nuts

- safe place

- no

Disadvantages of never leaving the nut tree:

- same old view

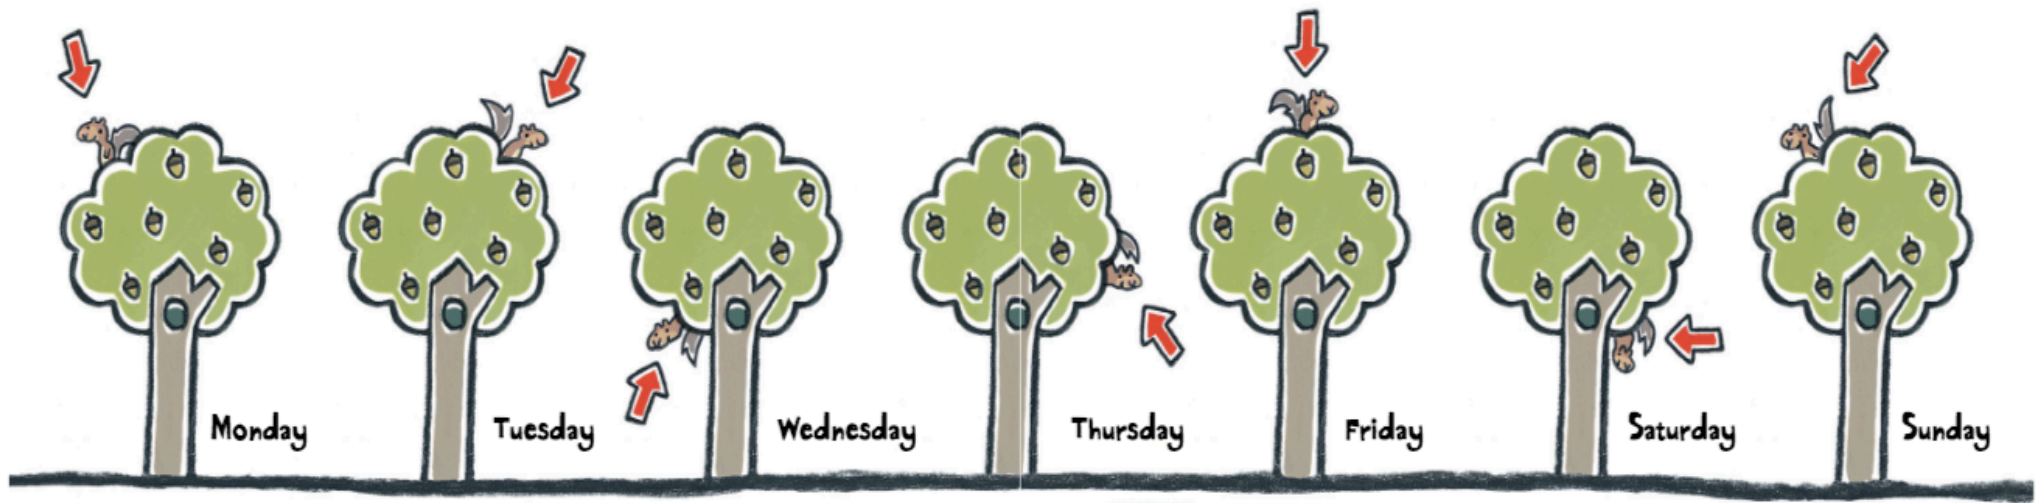

- same old nuts

- same old place

In Scaredy Squirrel's nut tree, every day is the same. Everything is predictable.
All is under control.

Scaredy Squirrel's daily routine:

		<h1>Scaredy Squirrel's daily routine:</h1>
 12:00 noon	eat a nut
 12:30 p.m.	look at view
 6:45 a.m.	wake up		 5:00 p.m.	eat a nut
 7:00 a.m.	eat a nut		 5:31 p.m.	look at view
 7:15 a.m.	look at view		 8:00 p.m.	go to sleep

BUT let's say, just for example, that something unexpected DID happen ...

You can rest assured that this squirrel is prepared.

A few items in Scaredy Squirrel's
emergency kit:

hard hat

antibacterial soap

calamine lotion

parachute

bug spray

mask and rubber gloves

net

Band-Aid

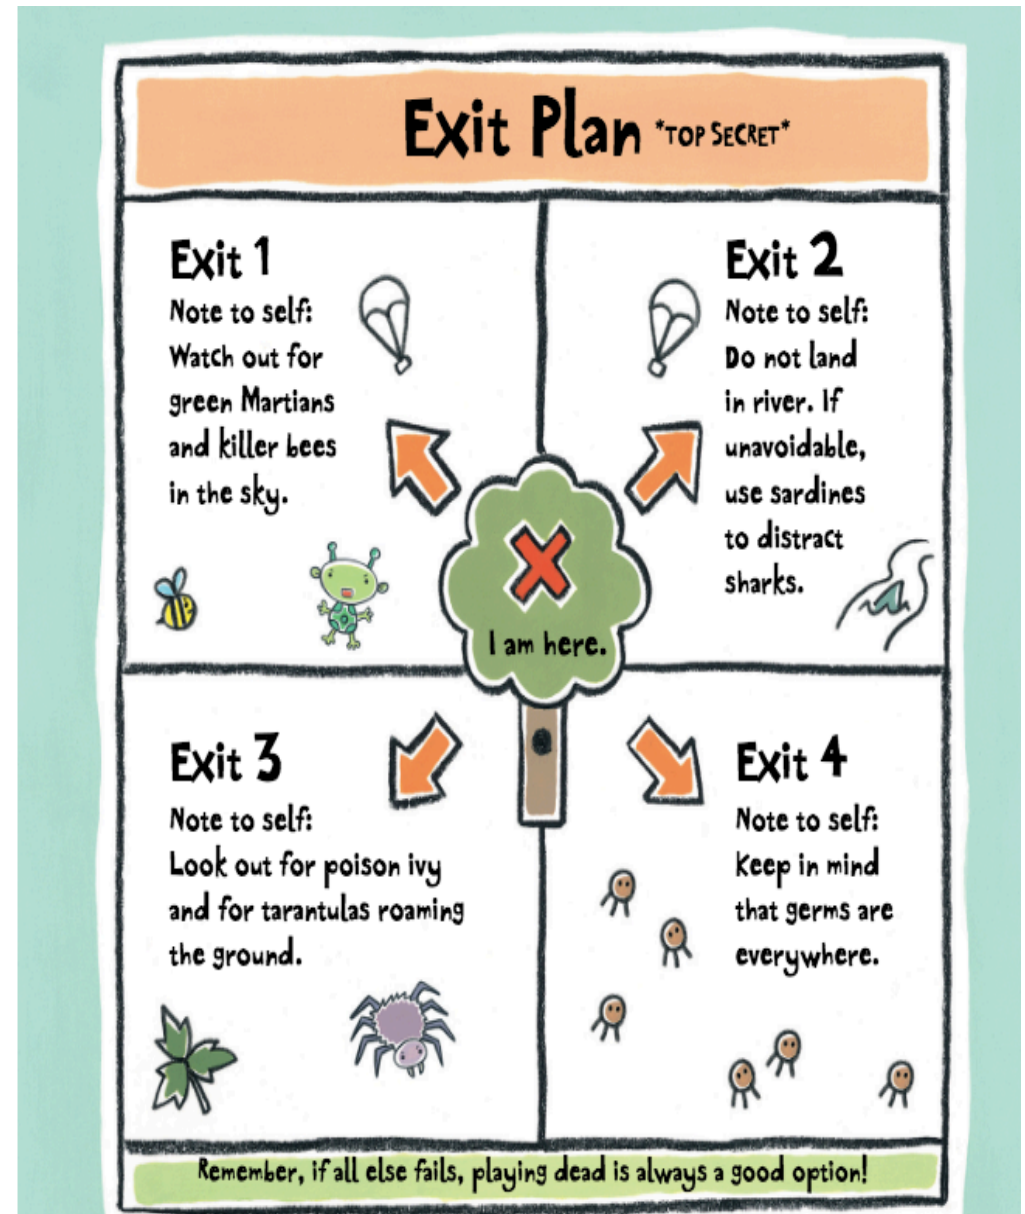

sardines

What to do in case of an emergency according to Scaredy Squirrel:

↑
Dramatization

- Step 1: Panic
- Step 2: Run
- Step 3: Get kit
- Step 4: Put on kit
- Step 5: Consult Exit Plan
- Step 6: Exit tree (if there is absolutely, definitely, truly no other option)

A killer bee appears!

Scaredy Squirrel jumps in panic, knocking his emergency kit out of the tree.

This was NOT part of the Plan.

Scaredy Squirrel jumps to catch his kit.
He quickly regrets this idea.
The parachute is in the kit.

But something incredible happens ...

He starts to glide.

Scaredy Squirrel is no ordinary squirrel.
He's a FLYING squirrel!

Finally Scaredy Squirrel realizes that nothing horrible is happening in the unknown today. So he returns to his nut tree.

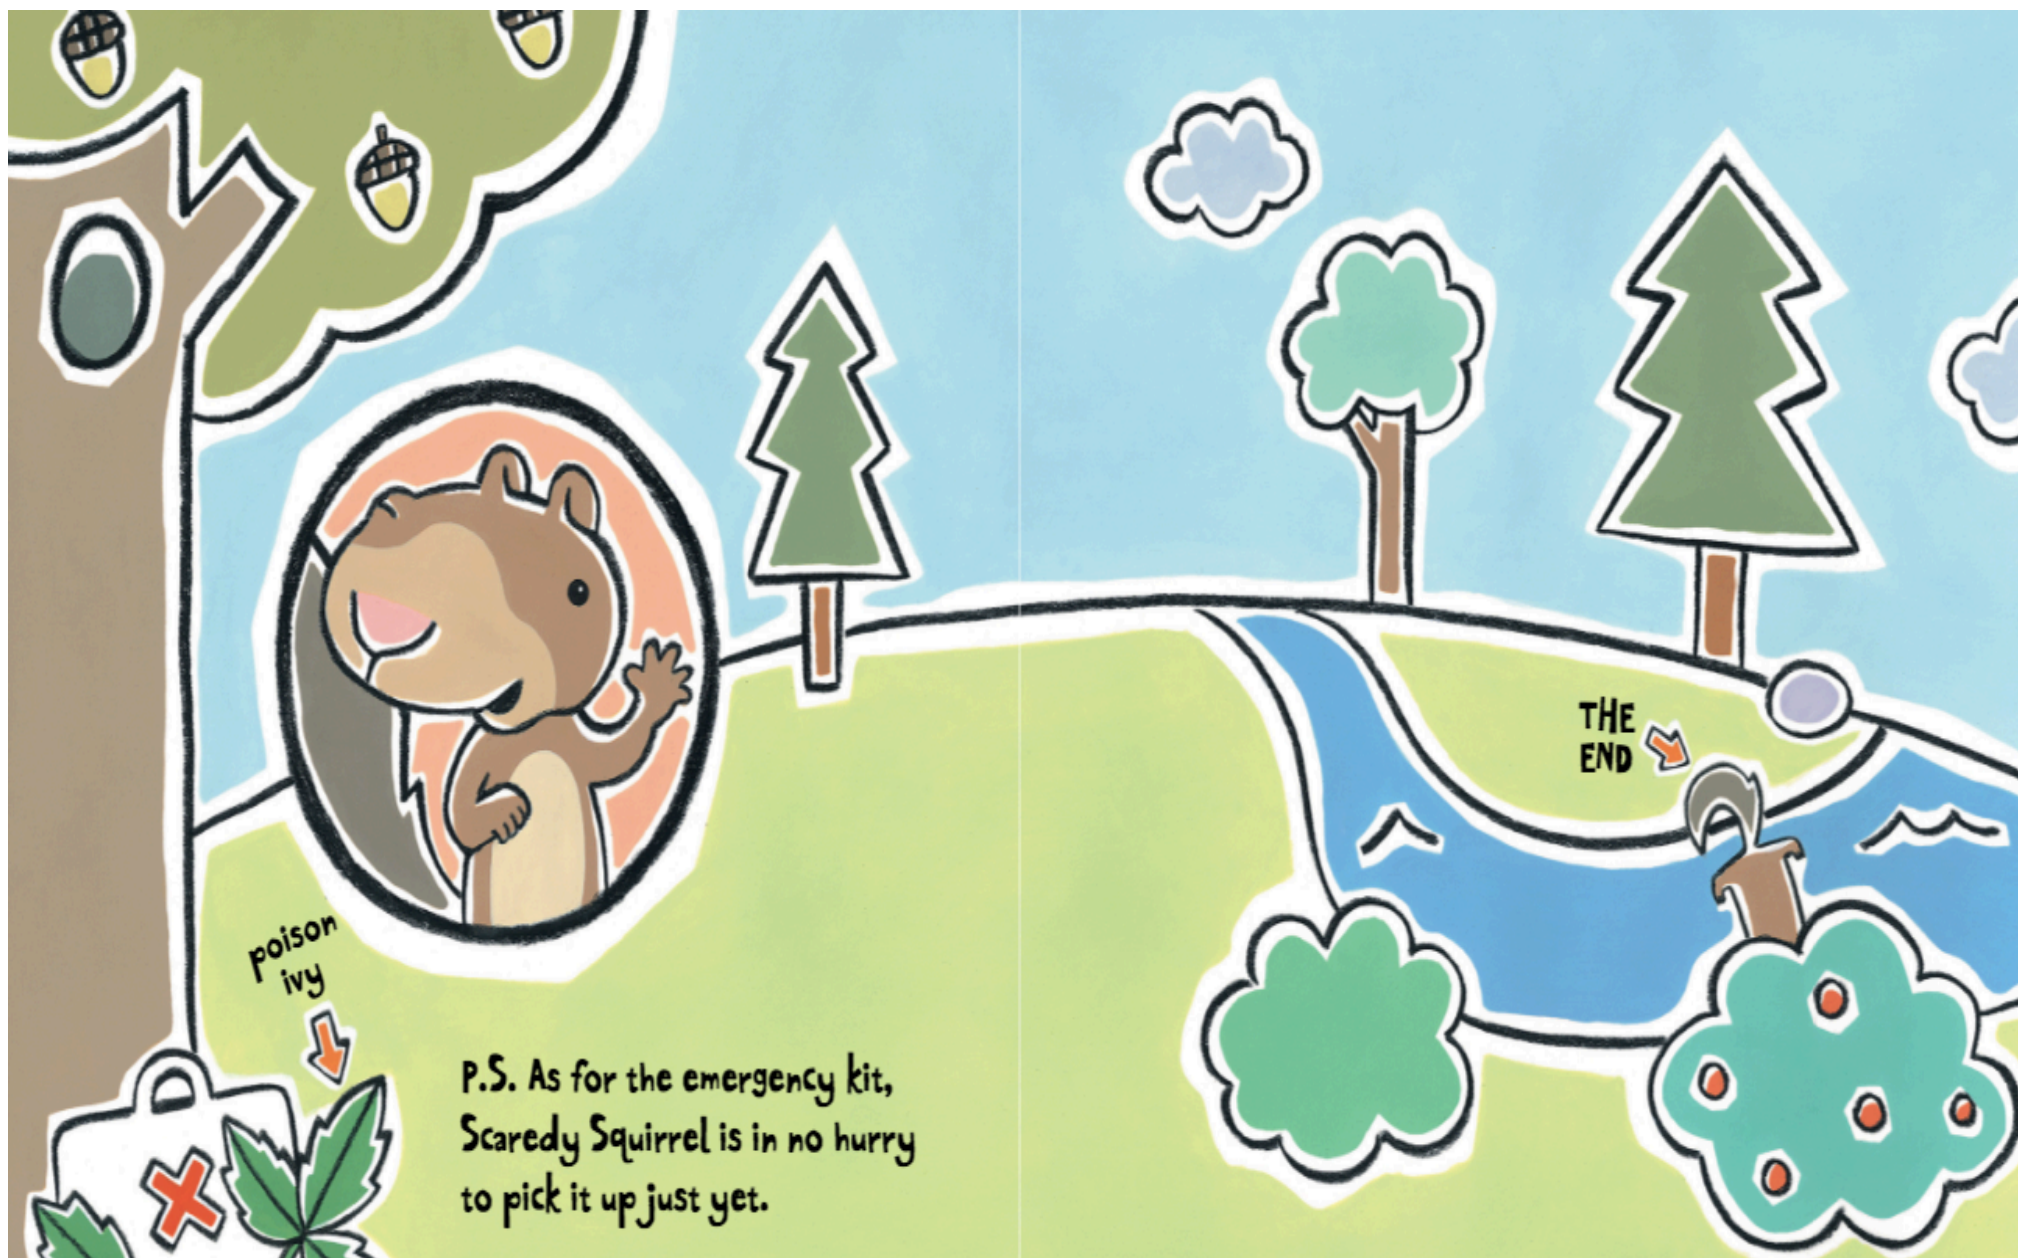

All this excitement has inspired Scaredy Squirrel to make drastic changes to his life ...

Scaredy Squirrel's new-and-improved daily routine:

 9:45 a.m.				play dead
 11:45 a.m.				return home
 12:00 noon				eat a nut
 6:45 a.m.	wake up		 12:30 p.m.	look at view
 7:00 a.m.	eat a nut		 5:00 p.m.	eat a nut
 7:15 a.m.	look at view		 5:31 p.m.	look at view
 9:37 a.m.	jump into the unknown		 8:00 p.m.	go to sleep

poison
ivy

P.S. As for the emergency kit, Scaredy Squirrel is in no hurry to pick it up just yet.
