The Three Little Recyclers

Three little pigs each built a new house. They used recycled materials.

The first pig built a house out of cardboard boxes.

The second pig built a house
out of glass bottles.

The third pig built a house out of tin cans. She filled the cans with sand and glued them together.

On trash day, A. Wolf came by in his giant trash truck. "I've come to take the trash!" he cried.

"Oh dear!" cried the pig with the cardboard house.

Rrrroooooaarr! The huge truck
chugged and chewed.

Soon the cardboard house was gone. The first pig ran to the second pig's glass house.

A. Wolf followed in his giant trash truck.
“I’ve come to take the trash!” he cried.

gone. The two pigs ran to the third pig's tin house.

A. Wolf followed in his giant trash truck.
“I’ve come to take the trash!” he cried again.

Rrrroooooarr! The huge truck
chugged and chewed,
and chewed, and chugged.

A green truck with large, sharp teeth is shown on the left side of the spread. The truck is green with a yellow stripe and has a large eye on its side. Its mouth is open, revealing sharp, pointed teeth that are yellow and red. The truck is positioned on a green hill.

But the tin house was too strong for the truck to chew.

"Stop!" cried the third pig. "This is not trash, this is my house!"

“Wow,” said A. Wolf. “Maybe I should be a house builder!”

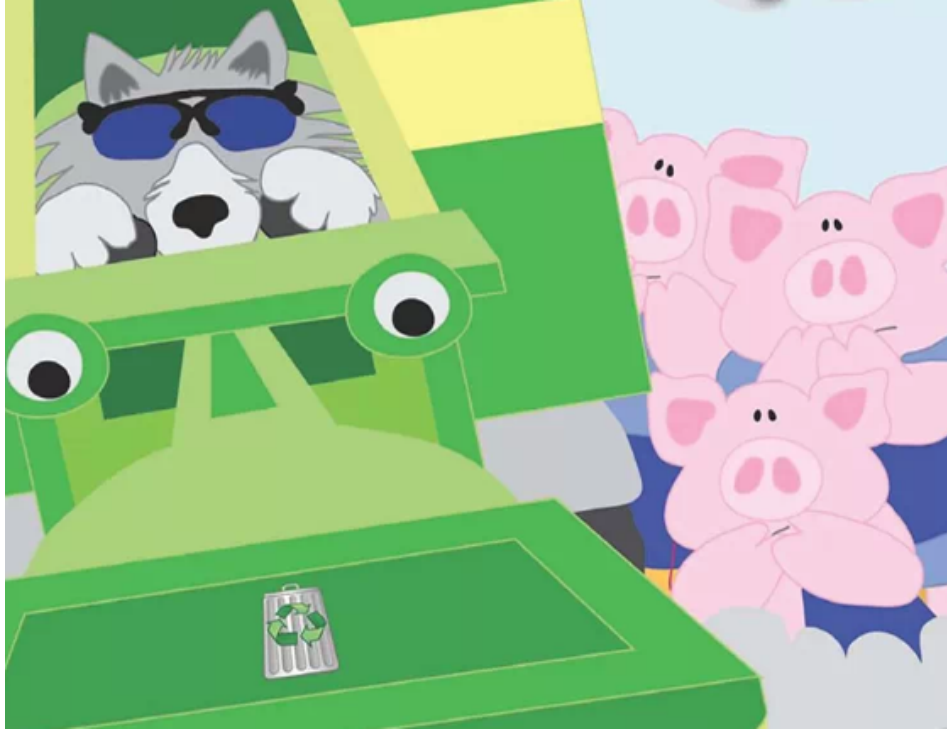

“You have plenty of trash,” said the pig.

A. Wolf waved goodbye and chugged down the road.
“Whew,” said all three pigs.

Comes once a year,
Love and care for our
Earth so dear.
