

Test and Exam Monitor (TEM)

What is TEM?

The Test and Exam Monitor (TEM) is an LMS tool that provides the following features:

- Maintains a log of all test and exam writing sessions in all courses.
- Allows the Proctor Manager to appoint a Proctor for each writing session.
- Allows the Proctor to submit the Proctor Report after the completion of each test or exam writing session.

Roles:

- Proctor Manager: The Proctor Manager appoints a Proctor for each writing sessions. Note that the School Administrator (SA) has this role by default. The SA may appoint another staff to this role by visiting the School Manager and following these steps.
- Proctor: A staff member that has successfully completed the Proctor Training Certification Module.

What is a writing session?

A writing session occurs when a group of students (i.e. a class) gather together to complete a test or exam or other proctored activity. Unless there is a good reason, all students in a class should always complete proctored activities at the same time. If students in a class completes a proctored activity at a different time or on different day, these will be considered different writing sessions. For example:

- A class of 10 students is scheduled to write a test on November 5 at 1PM.
- 9 students start the test at the scheduled time, but 1 student starts at 3PM.
- These are considered 2 separate writing sessions and will require the Proctor to submit a separate Proctor Report for each session. The Proctor must also provide a legitimate reason to explain why there were multiple writing sessions for this test.

Note:

- Writing sessions are determined by start time of each student. Students who start the activity within the same hour (60 minutes) are considered part of the same writing session.
- Depending on the size of the class, the writing session may be supervised by more than one proctor but only the Proctor that is designated in TEM is required to submit the Proctor Report.
